1a. What strategic priority does this program address?

1b. What does this program do?

The Children's Division is actively engaged in planning activities to implement the Family First Prevention Services Act (FFPSA) by October 1, 2021, to adequately meet the needs of children and families by offering preventative services to assist children to remain safely in their homes and ensuring children in care are placed in the least restrictive, most family-like setting appropriate to the child's special needs when foster care is needed. For the purposes of Title IV-E Prevention Services, children identified as being candidates for foster care are those at imminent risk of entering foster care; however can remain safely in the home with family engagement in supportive services to address mental health, substance use, or in-home parenting services. Eligibility for Title IV-E Prevention Services must be defined in each child's prevention plan.

The following target population groups for Family First Prevention eligibility may include:

- Children identified as needing services through an active investigation or assessment, or are already receiving services by the state agency, to include non-court and court-involved cases
- Children involved in a newborn crisis assessment where the mother or child had a positive toxicology screening during pregnancy or at the time of birth
- Children, including pre or post-natal infants, of pregnant or parenting youth currently in foster care or who have exited foster care within the past five years
- Children who have exited foster care through reunification, guardianship, or adoption within the past five years and are at risk of disruption
- Siblings of children in foster care who still reside in the family home with identified safety concerns and are at risk of entering foster care

FFPSA was passed and signed into law as part of the Bipartisan Budget Act on February 9, 2018. The FFPSA provides support to the child welfare system by providing the tools needed to help children and families who come to the attention of the child welfare system. FFPSA allows for federal reimbursement of money under Title IV-E of the Social Security Act to be used toward prevention services allowing children to remain safely with their families and out of the foster care system. When foster care is needed, it permits federal reimbursement for care in family-based settings, as a major focus of the act is to place children with relatives or in foster family homes, and certain residential treatment programs for children with demonstrated clinical need. The intent of FFPSA is to ensure that children whose needs cannot be met in a family setting receive high-quality residential treatment services, for only as long as needed, that allow them to successfully transition back to family care.
