1a. What strategic priority does this program address?

Empower More Agricultural Producers

1b. What does this program do?

The USDA National Agriculture Statistics Service (NASS) estimates Missouri has 2,289 farms growing fruits and vegetables. The majority of Missouri produce farms covered under the Food Safety Modernization Act (FSMA) will need to be in compliance in 2021 even though inspections began in 2019. The Department's Produce Safety Program is providing food safety trainings, outreach, and individual farm visits to prepare growers for future regulatory food safety inspection. Additional travel efforts are being made to meet with Amish and Mennonite farmers.

The Department and Extension are working collectively to provide outreach and education to growers throughout the state. Produce Safety Alliance trainings, which are a requirement of FSMA, are being offered throughout the state. Individual farm visits are being made to assess a farm's produce safety practices. In addition to these visits, the Department has developed resources to help growers with compliance. For example, producers had difficulty understanding the type of records they needed to keep to meet the provisions of FSMA so the Department developed a record template booklet containing examples.

2a. Provide an activity measure for the program.

Note: FSMA Produce Safety Regulations require growers to attend this training.
